PRESIDENT'S PAGE

Interest Arbitration is scheduled to begin September 6, 2012 between NALC and USPS before National Arbitrator Shyam Das for a New National Agreement. Hearing and testimony for a contract could take several months. The current agreement expired on September 30, 2011 and is still in full force. I believe upper management thinks that the contract no longer exists. Management in Columbus continues to violate the agreement daily by forcing Letter Carriers not on the list to carry overtime before Carriers on the list are maximized to 12 hours. Carriers need to carry their assignment professionally at all times and complete 3996's if you are unable to complete the assignment within the agreed to time frames. The Union continues to file grievances on this issue. If you are required to work overtime before the list is maximized contact your steward and ask to file a grievance. The stewards at most stations have done an excellent job in enforcing the contract violations of management. This is just the latest misguided policy used by management and the branch will defend the rights of our members. We are in a battle and the membership needs to stand together to fight the latest attempt by management to reinvent the wheel. We have fought this battle before and with unity we will prevail again.

The NALC 68th Biennial National Convention was held in Minneapolis, Minnesota July 23 thru 27. The branch sent 20 delegates who attended training sessions before and after the general sessions. This convention was very informative and the news was not good. Ron Bloom from Lazard Investment was hired by NALC to see if the Postal Service strategies would work in the future. The report from Mr. Bloom was that if the Postal Service continued on with their current plan the USPS would be gone within 10 years. The only ideas coming from the Postmaster General is to cut service, cut days of delivery, close plants and reduce employees. Mr. Bloom stated that management had thrown in the towel. We need leadership that wants the Postal Service to survive and expand the business model to use our delivery network. We don't need management to reduce and shrink the Postal Service after 235 years of delivering for the American people.

The Robert Solt Memorial Golf Outing to benefit MDA was held August 12 at St. Albans Golf Club, 3833 Northridge Rd Alexandria, OH 43001. I want to thank all those who were in attendance and donated to this worthy cause. Trustee Orrin Bowman ran the outing for the first time and did an excellent job. The branch was able to raise $3,600 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. I look forward to seeing all members at the Branch 78 annual picnic September 23, 2012 at Heimat Haus Party House, located at 4555 Jackson Pike, Grove City, OH 43123. Please stay informed and attend the monthly Union meeting the second Wednesday of each month at 6:30 pm at the Branch 78 Union Hall located at 1029 Harrisburg Pike Columbus, Ohio 43223.

FROM THE VICE PRESIDENT MARK BEACH

Mark Beach

This is the article that took forever to finish. I started writing the article on the way back from the National Convention over two weeks ago. Little did I know how many times it would be put off for other more pressing union priorities. Thank you Yana Miller for your patience and understanding when I completely miss my deadline for article submission. Like most things in life, time is a valuable commodity that can never be replaced.

A few notes on the convention; I know all the delegates expressed gratitude to the membership for letting them represent Branch 78 in Minneapolis. The delegates from Branch 78 attended classes daily ranging from health benefits and retirement to contract administration. A first at the convention was a week-long steward class that examined a removal case from the very first interview all the way through the binding arbitration. I would like to say the general sessions painted a positive outlook for the Postal Service and the future for letter carriers, but it didn't. Ron Bloom the consultant hired by the union was pretty blunt when he told the delegation that the Postal Service's future looked very bleak. If you are not familiar with Mr. Bloom's resume, he was in charge of restructuring the Steel and Automotive Industry. Mr. Bloom stated that if the Postal Service continued its policy of slashing services and jobs it would lead to the eventual destruction and dismantling of the Postal Service. This was the bad news. The good news that Mr. Bloom shared was that all hope was not lost if the Postal Service and unions would jointly make necessary sacrifices and refocus the business to take advantage of the current booming internet parcel business and the Post Office's universal service. Obtaining relief from Congress on the health benefits overfunding is also an important piece of this puzzle. Mr. Bloom stated that in order for the Postal Service to survive, we would need a Postmaster and management structure that encourages growth and removal of rules that hinder the Postal Service from playing on a level playing field with its competition. This is a monumental task which will not be achieved without a majority of union letter carriers becoming active in the process. The alternative is losing our jobs.

As many of you have heard the delegation voted to endorse Obama for a second term as president of the United States. This did not come without controversy and some heated debate. The deciding factor seemed to boil down to one major undeniable fact. Romney policy advisors have stated in writing that he will break up and privatize the Postal Service if elected. My apology to any member out there that supports Romney, but I support the delegation's decision. I need my job plain and simple; everything else takes a back seat to this job. If you are a letter carrier that thinks Romney will lower middle class taxes you are sadly mistaken. If Romney is elected letter carriers will probably be out of a job and paying higher taxes. Letter carriers and the union are the backbone of the middle class. If politicians are able to destroy unions, the middle class will sink into poverty.

Step one to saving your job is to become an e-activist. The union uses this e-mail system to alert the membership on items that directly affect us as letter carriers. The second is to become a COLCPE Gimme 5 contributor. Just 36 cents a day can help elect labor friendly candidates to save our jobs. The third is to become politically active and write a letter to your Congressman. Yes, sometimes we go over the same topics again and again in branch bulletin. It's because if more members do not join our fight we will have a lot of time to discuss what we should have done in the unemployment line. Don't wait until they close and lock the Post Office doors to do something to save your job.

After the convention, I helped out at the NALC Branch 78 golf outing for MDA. Orrin Bowman did a tremendous job putting this event together on short notice. Everyone walked home with something and Branch 78 raised over two thousand dollars for MDA. These types of events are important for many reasons. These include but are not limited to, supporting a great cause, bringing letter carriers together in a positive enjoyable environment, and showing the public that letter carriers care. Congrats to Delaware letter carrier Chris Haser and his team this year's scramble champions.

Finally, I would like to address the issue that is weighing on most of the membership's mind. Branch

MILLER'S MUSINGS

Election season is here and there is no way to avoid the hype. I can only urge you to correct your address with the Board of Elections in your county of residence. Please request an Absentee Ballot, it is First Class revenue we desperately need. Do not believe that your vote is not important, IT MOST CERTAINLY IS! I am appalled at the level of ignorance exhibited by some candidates. I am disgusted by the outright lies in some of the ads. I am more concerned about the number of people that believe these untruths. As a woman with granddaughters, I am concerned about the legislation being kicked around to push women's health under the bus. I cannot understand why this congress that has done nothing short of being obstructionist, sitting around with their thumbs in dark places, is not being held accountable for failure to perform for the good of the nation. They have been a chorus of NAYS and no sound alternatives to replace what they vote against. Amazingly, the country has managed to make small but significant strides in spite of them. Just think of the possibilities had they worked with the President. And the Supremes, as in NO JUSTICE, I could just shake them till their get their brains back in gear, but that is another issue. I have been reading about some of the legislation that has been proposed by this congress and it is damn scary. Things like stripping the EPA of all powers, wiping out the Clean Air Act and abolishing all funding for global warming studies and how to combat it, after the drought that has crossed this land all summer. What is wrong with these people? You must vote to save us from them, not to be melodramatic but it is impending doom, not to mention saving your job.

I wish to thank you for allowing me to attend the National Convention, the caliber of workshops was definitely improved. They were informative and sometimes very depressing. The National is investigating any and all types of uses for the excellent delivery network we have. I particularly liked the idea of reviving the Postal Banking System, my senior Aunts remember having their first savings account with the Postal Bank. The idea to have a secured postal email address for everyone and to have documents delivered when a hard copy was needed, would make us more compatible in the internet oriented world. If we could only interest the PMG in innovating without cutting service to the quick. I would encourage you to look into the annuity and insurance plans offered by the Mutual Benefit Association. There are some very sound offerings available, especially for the under forty crowd, with the opportunity to amass a really nice nest egg over the years. The workshop on NRP was done with a skit portraying how diligent management was in their search for "suitable/necessary" work for the injured carriers. It was comical but sadly true! I am confident in President Rolando and his team, fighting for us to end. But he needs us to back him. He will work to get President Obama educated on the necessity of maintaining six day delivery. We must respond to his calls to action to flood congress with calls against HR2309 and any other request. If you didn't call the toll free number before to oppose HR2309, I suggest you try before the summer break ends. 888-863-6103. You enter your zip plus four and they connect you to your representative. Ask them to oppose HR 2309 because it is a job killer and reduces revenue for every community with postal employees. When you tell the public that there is an effort afoot to end door to door delivery, they are not happy, so share the number.

Come out to the Branch Picnic and spend a day with friends, it is always a good time.

Keep our sick and suffering in your prayers.

Respect. It seems to be the word of the month for the United States Postal Service. Upper, upper management has instructed frontline supervisors/managers to read statements during the Plan 5 about the importance of mutual respect in the workplace. Fine words and fine ideals but, I wish the Postal Service would finally learn to practice what they preach. Your can't badger folks into respecting others. Respect must be earned, not instructed. The sad thing is that the upper tiers of Postal management constantly fail to recognize that they are the biggest violators of this concept of "respect".

Micromanagement is rampant within the organization. Where's the respect in that? No one is trusted to do their job competently. This lack of trust is ramped up by using threats of discipline to coerce proper behavior. Craft employees aren't the only victims of this intimidation. Front line supervisors and unit managers are frequently called to task and berated on daily telecoms. The system is broken and no one in real authority is motivated to fix it. They're only motivated to make the numbers, no matter how unrealistic their figures are. Demoralizing isn't it?

But there is one form of respect that we, as individuals are empowered to command and control: self-respect. Self-respect begins with recognizing that you, as a person, have great worth and ability. We have the power to control how we're perceived by others. We have the power to present ourselves in a professional manner, both in appearance and in how we interact with the public. We have the power and self-respect to complete each task that we're assigned to the best of our ability. We know our customers better than any other delivery service. We respect our customers and provide them with superior service because of that knowledge. Upper management may not recognize the immense value of that knowledge, but those of us actually doing the job realize that it's one of our organization's greatest assets.

One final way that letter carriers can command respect is by protecting yourself and your job. You must file grievances when your contractual rights are being abused by management. Sadly, top tier management has chosen to make violating our contract the rule, not the exception. Fight back against that misguided stance. You must also protect yourself against injury. It's much better to face the possibility of unwarranted discipline, than to risk an injury that may permanently impact your life.

The Postal Service is an organization that is trying to find its place in the 21st century. Presently, it's trying to balance its fiscal books on the backs of the letter carriers. ALWAYS REMEMBER: we're the pillars that hold the Postal Service up. We are the backbone of the organization. Without us and our commitment to serving the public, the entire organization would crumble. Remember your self-respect, square your shoulders and hold your head high. Never ever let someone else undermine your self worth.

A MESSAGE FROM THE VICE PRESIDENT MARK BEACH

78 and other NALC branches within the Cincinnati district are in major dispute with the new district manager's policy to force non list carriers to carry overtime before maximizing the ODL list carriers. This has been followed by a rash of questionable discipline and harassment of carriers trying to do their already difficult jobs. Management has seemingly implemented a new half hour every day, every route pivot policy in the city of Columbus. This is ridiculous since the city just underwent route adjustments that made most of the routes over 8 hours. This has led to even more grievances in the system and growing tension on the workroom floor. The Formal A representatives and DRT team are now backlogged with hundreds of forced overtime and ODL maximization cases. It will be a continuous process to hold these cases and keep the system moving. This system will not produce a resolve overnight but should eventually resolve most of the issues. I ask the membership to be patient and believe in the process. We may be the only side trying to abide by the rules. If management insists on giving you an assignment that you cannot make or forces you to carry overtime without maximizing the list, fill out a 3996 and ask to see your steward. Write a detailed statement of the account and fill out all 3996's and turn them in. Keep your cool and stay professional. Management may be trying to bait you into losing your temper and then issuing you discipline. We can win this battle over time if we do our part by properly filling out 3996's and standing our ground as management continues to try and circumvent the contract.

2012 MDA ANNUAL GOLF OUTING

As chairman for the NALC 2012 MDA Golf Scramble, I want to thank everyone for your participation or donations. The 2012 Robert Solt Memorial Golf Outing to benefit MDA was held on August 12, 2012 at the St. Albans Golf Course and was a great success. Through our efforts we were able to present $3,600 to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. In 1953 the NALC recognized how important this organization was and started a campaign to help contribute to research seeking the causes of, and effective treatments for, neuromuscular diseases. This desire to help fight these terrible diseases is alive today as noted by your participation in this event. I would like to thank NALC Region 11 National Business Agent Dan Toth for coming down from Lorain, Ohio to help support and play in our event. Additionally, it was only with the help of all of NALC Branch 78 officers from President Todd Hornyak down was this event possible. I want to give special thanks to Mark Beach, Yana Miller-Farney, Jacki Mitchell and Charles Sanders for preparing the food. This event and the donation to MDA would not have been a success with our business sponsors and those Letter Carriers that participated in this outing, thank you all.

THE REALITY OF OUR FUTURE

I would like to first off thank the membership for giving me the opportunity to represent Branch 78 at the NALC 68th Biennial Convention in Minneapolis Minnesota. The convention was very informative with many speakers to listen to and workshops to attend. In my opinion, the best speaker was Ron Bloom from the investment bank Lazard Group, LLC. Many of you may recognize both of those names. The NALC has hired them as advisors to consider the current USPS financial crisis and its long-term challenges.

Mr. Bloom was an amazing speaker. The information he gave the delegation wasn't all peaches and cream however. This Union and the Postal Service are at a crossroads. The Postal Service believes that it needs to "shrink to survive", the NALC believes in new revenue generation, new services, and the continuation of six day delivery among other things. The steel industry did the same thing the Postal Service is doing now; retreat, retreat, retreat.

Like the steelworkers union, the NALC will need to try and lead the restructuring of the industry on its own, focusing on five arenas: politics, collective bargaining, corporate operations and finances, industry structure, and management. If we as a Union don't "stand up for the industry, nobody will, because at the end of the day, nobody cares more about these institutions than the people who work for them." Mr. Bloom said "The history of the Postal Service teaches us that we need three things to succeed: A leader with vision who wants the Postal Service to win; a Congress that sees the value of the network; and letter carriers who stand up for themselves and this institution."

We as a Union, can do great things. One way is by giving to COLCPE. This is one of the arenas Mr. Bloom talked about. Every member, scab, and employee knows that politics is a money game; no money and you don't play. That is why giving to COLCPE is a great way for the NALC to get into the game. The Gimme 5 program is an easy way for us to help those that help us. I believe that $5 per pay (the minimum for the program) is something we all can afford. How much is your job worth to you?

Mr. Bloom stated a very important fact. The Postal Service has the NALC. "Whether the USPS survives really does rest on letter carrier shoulders." I was texting back and forth with another carrier last night and the topic of our future came up. He asked how long do we have? My response was very candid, the 5% of Union membership can not do the work of 100% of the membership. This Nation, the Postal Service and this Union needs the 95% to get off their asses and fight for our jobs, our families, and our futures!

If we are to survive this time of transition as employees of the Postal Service and members of the NALC, we ALL need to work to do anything in our power to secure our future.

Trevor Payne
